Employment

July 2015 - PRESENT
Senior Front End Engineer
@ WebMD, New York, NY

Building and maintaining front end products for both the educational & promotional side of Medscape.com using JS, CSS, JSP, Angular, and React.

Products include an HTML5 video/slideshow course viewer built using React (http://www.medscape.org/viewarticle/861196), an svg icon library management system built in Angular 2, and various other product templates (http://www.medscape.org/sites/advances/evolving-anticoagulation). In addition to building and maintaining products, I am also spearheading the transition of medscape.com into a fully responsive website.
